RESOLVE YOUR PAST

Worksheet

Learn from your thought loops, negative emotions and limiting beliefs instead of staying stuck inside them.

THE THREE AREAS

Replaying the past after divorce gets you nowhere and it keeps you stuck. The past is for learning so we are going to learn from our thought loops, negative emotions and limiting beliefs instead of staying stuck inside of them.

There are three main things to look at when resolving the past:

1. Thought Loops
2. Negative Emotions
3. Limiting Beliefs

STEP 1

Identify What's Bothering You Most

Think about what one is bothering you the most and identify it here:

_____

_____

STEP 2

Determine the Specific Problem

Ask yourself: What is the problem?

_____

_____

STEP 3

Resolve Your Problem

Ask yourself these three questions:

1. When did you decide to create this problem?
(thought loop, negative emotion, limiting beliefs)

_____

_____

2. What can you learn from this to let it go?

_____

_____

3. What do you want to do or feel instead?

_____

_____

A NOTE ON LEARNINGS

Effective learnings are:

- Positive
- About you (use words such as I am or I have)
- Present or future based

EXAMPLE (Not Effective):

I don't have to be scared anymore.

(This is not positive because your mind is focused on being scared and it's focused on the past)

EXAMPLE (Effective):

I have confidence to accomplish anything.